For Immediate Release

Dallas, Texas / Budapest, Hungary — The new official website for composer / music producer Julius Dobos has been launched.

The original juliusdobos.com website was introduced in 1999, in conjunction with Julius' second major album release, Mountain Flying. The initial traffic by visitors from around the world was exceptional and the site's popularity saw a steady growth with the success of Mountain Flying and other musical works.

Following a period of no news of fan interest due to the composer's film music industry focus, in 2007 the site was reduced to provide only basic information about Julius.

Creative Shop Music commissioned Derby, UK based designer Mike Ingham to merge today's popular functionality and the clean design of tomorrow into an website visually representing the unique, modern musical style of Julius Dobos.

The launch of the new website is just in time to support the release of the composer's latest "comeback" album, Transitions, expected to be released before the end of December.
